This, the sixth and Centennial, edition of the Alumni Record has been prepared under the direction of a committee appointed by the Trustees, consisting of C. R. Berrien, '96, chairman, A. W. Johnston, '93, and F. W. Nicolson, editor. It follows the general plan of the last two editions, published in 1911 and 1921. Because of the large numbers graduated in recent classes, and in order to prevent the expansion of the book to undue proportions, the complete records of alumni are limited to the living; the essential facts concerning the deceased are given, but some details, including the family record, have been omitted. The military records of alumni in the World War have been somewhat condensed. Membership in national sororities of the women students during the period of co-education, 1872-1912, have been, however, indicated for the first time.

Since the history of the college in being written by Carl F. Price, '02, to be published in connection with the Centennial Celebration, October 10-12, 1931, the usual historical sketch of the institution has been omitted from this edition. On the other hand, the Annals, instead of covering merely the period since the last edition of the Record, are given from the founding of the college, one hundred years ago, being reprinted, in slightly condensed form, from the earlier editions of 1883, 1911, and 1921. It is felt that the Annals constitute a mine of information about the development of the college that is worth preserving in complete and connected form.

The editor regrets that recent information is lacking concerning a number of the graduates and a larger number of the non-graduates. Every effort has been made to get the facts; the first request for information, sent to all whose addresses were known to the Alumni Secretary, and accompanied by a return stamped envelope, was followed, where no reply was received, by a second communication; but a considerable number did not accede to the request for data. Records incomplete for this reason are indicated by the symbol (†).

In this edition for the first time the non-graduates are grouped with the classes with which they were associated in college, instead of appearing separately in another part of the book.

The editor desires to express his appreciation of the assistance given him by the other members of the Publication Committee, and by President McConaughy.

FRANK W. NICOLSON, Editor.

I. PRELIMINARY TO THE OPENING OF THE UNIVERSITY.

1824.

(Sept. 6) About thirteen acres of land, with a frontage on High Street of 634 feet, having been purchased through subscription by the citizens of Middletown, Conn., was legally transferred by the former owner to three trustees for the erection of buildings for "The American Literary, Scientific, and Military Academy." This Academy was founded by Capt. Alden Partridge, the first Superintendent of the U. S. Military Academy, West Point, N. Y.—(Oct. 24) The corner-stone of the Lyceum Building was laid.

1825.

(May) An Act of incorporation granted by the General Assembly of Connecticut to the American Literary, Scientific, and Military Academy.—(Aug. 22) The Academy was opened to students. The buildings were [1] the Dormitory (North College), facing east, 150 x 52 feet, four stories and attic, long halls on each floor (no sectional partitions), of brown sandstone from the quarry at Chatham (now Portland, Conn.: [2] the Lyceum (after 1862 called Chapel Building; after 1871, South College), in line with and twenty feet south of Dormitory, of same material, 45 x 56, a ground-floor, partly basement, and three floors above, tower in front 14 x 16 and 73 feet high; ground floor was used for arsenal and laboratory; third floor consisted of one room called Hall of the Lyceum, and was used for public services, entertainments, and as drill-room: [3] two guard-houses about 10 x 12, of same material as Dormitory, one on each side of the High Street entrance leading to the front door of the Dormitory.* The Boarding Hall had been erected as a private enterprise during the summer. This was situated nearly in line with William Street, some distance back from High, facing north, about 150 x 50, of brick, entrance at west end; basement with kitchens, etc., first story for dining hall, and second story for officers' rooms. About this time, Capt. Partridge erected, apparently with his own funds, a gun-house (later a physics laboratory, torn down in 1907), about seventy-five feet west of Dormitory, 30 x 55, entrance at east end, two stories, of brick.

1826.

The first catalogue of 1826 of the Academy shows 19 officers and 281 cadets; the second of 1826, 22 officers and 274 cadets. Those for the remaining years show a steady and decided decrease in numbers.

* The original plan contemplated another large building of exactly similar external proportions as the Dormitory, to be situated south of the Lyceum, making a symmetrical group of the three buildings.

1827.

(May 5) The petition of the trustees to the General Assembly of Connecticut for power to confer degrees, award diplomas, and raise by lottery $40,000 for chemical, astronomical, and philosophical apparatus, and for library and buildings, was continued by the Assembly to the May session of 1828.

1828.

(May) The petitioners above named were given leave by the Assembly to withdraw.

1829.

Early in the year, Capt. Partridge obtaining the desired charter from the Vermont legislature closed the Academy and removed to Norwich, Vt.—A small school was kept up in the buildings by Prof. Edwin F. Johnson and Col. Ransom.—Rev. Laban Clark, D.D., proposed to buy the property of the Academy for $5,000 and establish a Methodist college.—(May 29) The New York Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church appointed a committee to consider proposals from the trustees of the Academy. The New England Conference a few days later appointed a similar committee. This joint committee issued proposals to several towns that they should compete for the location of the college by offering subscriptions. Troy, N. Y., Wilbraham, Mass., Bridgeport and Middletown, Conn., responded. The trustees then offered, on these two conditions, (1) the property to be used perpetually for a college or university, and (2) a fund of $40,000 to be first raised as endowment, to give gratuitously the entire property of land and buildings with fixtures and a nucleus of a library, together worth $30,000, to the Conferences through their committees.—(Oct. 16) The town of Middletown subscribed toward the fund of $40,000 a grant of $10,000.

1830.

(May) The New York Conference accepted the offer from Middletown, raised the balance of the $40,000, agreed on the name "WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY," and appointed permanent trustees.—(Aug. 24, 25, 26) First meeting of the trustees of Wesleyan University, and of the Joint Board. The perpetual lease of land and buildings accepted. Rev. Willbur Fisk, D.D., principal of Wesleyan Academy, Wilbraham, Mass., elected president of the University; salary, for first year, $1,000. A Prudential committee authorized to employ instructors for a school preparatory to opening the University, and to determine upon the expediency of establishing "commons." A committee to apply to the next General Assembly for an act of incorporation. Scholarships at $500 authorized.—(Oct.) A preparatory school opened in the old Methodist lecture room on Church Street under the care of Rev. William C. Larrabee, A.B., of Bowdoin College.—(Dec. 18) Pres. Fisk, leaving his family in Wilbraham, reached Middletown; spent most of the winter and following spring in traveling as financial agent.

1831.

(May 13 and 14) Meeting of the Joint Board. The Boarding Hall to be purchased, if possible. Three professors elected. Rules and regulations adopted: I. The Joint Board to choose the faculty, make rules for government, instruction, etc.; each professor to receive $750 salary and two-thirds of the tuition fees on the individual recitations which he may hear daily over the number of forty-five, provided that the total sum received never be over $1,500. II. Studies divided into departments; students to be classed in each department according to degree of their advancement, and whenever they complete the full course, without reference to the length of time, they shall receive graduate degrees. Examinations on entering college; also at close of each term before an examining committee. Marks to be based on examinations and the weekly reports of the professors. III. Commencement to be the third Wednesday in September. Tuition to be $6 a term for each study heard daily, the number of studies being decided by the president according to the mental ability and financial circumstances of the student; room-rent, front, $4, back, $3; graduating fee, $4 for degree and $1 for diploma. IV. Government to be paternal, vested in the president and supported by the professors; a book of merit and demerit to be kept, and incorrigible students to be sent home.—21. Act of incorporation granted by the General Assembly of Connecticut. (For changes in the charter, see June 1870 and June 1907.) Provisions of the charter: I. The University to possess estate not exceeding $200,000, excluding college buildings, library and apparatus; provided that subscribing to religious tenets shall never be a condition of admission to students or a cause of ineligibility to the president, professors, or other officers. II. All property to be managed in behalf of the Annual Conferences or General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. III. Usual quorum to be 9; number of trustees never to be more than 39. IV. The Joint Board, composed of the above trustees and of the visitors to be elected by the Annual Conferences (or General Conference), shall elect the president and faculty, prescribe the course of study, etc. V. The president to confer degrees and grant diplomas to candidates approved by a majority of the faculty and a majority of the Joint Board. VI. Funds to be similarly exempt from taxation as the funds of Yale College, and same privileges granted; provided that the real estate which is free from taxation shall never afford an annual income of over $6,000, and provided that the private property of the officers shall not be exempt.—(Sept. 20) Act of incorporation of May 21 adopted by the trustees. The Prudential committee authorized by the trustees to procure as soon as possible a complete philosophical and astronomical apparatus, and "to commence and regularly increase a library." A committee authorized to "lay out and improve the land, and set out trees." The board of instruction filled.

II. FROM THE OPENING OF THE UNIVERSITY.

(Sept. 21) The WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY was opened. Public exercises, consisting of orations and addresses by several students entering at the time, and of an inaugural address by the president, were held.—Over ten per cent. of the forty-eight students in attendance during the first term had been attending other colleges, but were drawn to Wesleyan by the general desire to attend a college of their own denomination. Of these forty-eight students, forty roomed in the Dormitory, seven resided in town at home, and one boarded in a private family. The Prudential committee voted "to furnish stoves for students in the University building at a suitable compensation." "More than half of the students" boarded themselves at about half the price of board at the boarding houses ($1.50 per week in private families) "chiefly on a milk and vegetable diet," and found it "very conducive to health and comfort." Students arranged under departments, in sections instead of by classes, and allowed to pursue studies in any particular department without reference to their standing in other departments, or to the length of time they should spend at the University. The departments were as follows: (1) moral science and belles-lettres; (2) mathematics, including natural philosophy and astronomy; (3) natural science, consisting of chemistry (so spelt in catalogue until 1839), geology and mineralogy with lectures; (4) ancient languages and literature, Latin and Greek only; (5) modern languages, German, French, Italian, and Spanish.—Government of the college under 21 trustees and 29 visitors from 3 Conferences. Faculty consisted of the president, 3 professors, and 1 tutor. For several years it was customary for the faculty to make tours of observation, and mark demerits for absences from rooms during study hours. Prayers held daily at 6 A. M. and 5 P. M., in the upper story of the Lyceum. It was customary for the president to officiate at evening services; members of the faculty in the morning. Recitations in one study by each class heard after chapel before breakfast. The first recitations of Monday at 6 o'clock, A. M., were suited for study on Sunday; "evidences of Christianity and kindred studies are designed to fill up the vacant hours of the Sabbath." Weekly exercises in composition and declamation through the whole four years' course. The library, which was very small, considerably less than 900 volumes, was kept at first on the first floor of the Lyceum. The reading-room at first was in the Lyceum; afterwards removed to the Dormitory. Laboratory in basement of the Lyceum. "A very respectable chemical apparatus is already provided, . . . and preparation is also making to procure from Europe the coming spring or summer an extensive mathematical and philosophical apparatus." Most of the necessary text books kept for sale under charge of the president. The campus at this time was an open, level field, where no trees had obstructed the military manoeuvres of the cadets. That portion lying south of the Lyceum was chosen by the students for their foot-ball ground. It became the custom for the first section (Freshman class) to furnish the foot-balls for the college. This custom was kept up till after 1865. First catalogue printed.—(Nov.) The Philorhetorean society organized from a pre-existing debating club; also called at first, the Philorhetorean lyceum, and for short, "Philo"; the name came to be spelled Philorhetorian; a literary society which was composed of members from all sections or classes; meetings held at first in different members' rooms; the society went out of existence in 1866. The Missionary society of Wesleyan University formed. The Non Nomenenda society was founded; a literary society with membership open to all. The Adelpian society, an open, literary society, purchased a treasurer's book; date of founding unknown. These literary societies met weekly on Tuesday evening. There was also formed about this time a Reading Room society.—(Dec. 21) First term closed; winter vacation of 7 weeks.—(1832, Feb. 14) Philo voted that all persons not members should be excluded hereafter from meetings unless invited. Also voted soon afterwards that proceedings should be kept secret. But Philo and Peitho were never strictly secret societies.—(Feb. 28) The Non Nomenenda society ceased to exist and transferred its funds to the Adelpian society.—(April 4) Prudential committee appointed three financial agents: Pres. Fisk, Dr. Clark, and Rev. F. Reed; strenuous efforts to be made to raise funds.—(April 12) Last account in the treasurer's book of the Missionary society; the society was soon afterward abandoned.—(July 4) The day celebrated by the students. Celebration of the day not regularly kept up at first.—(July 11) First annual examination ended. End of second (last) term of the first year, followed by a summer vacation of five weeks; the same the following year.

(Aug. 15) The third Wednesday, being the first day of the fall term, was the day for Commencement, but as no students were ready to graduate, there were no public exercises. Commencement was held at the beginning of the college year until 1843.—Two courses of study announced: the Bachelor of Arts course, and the English and Scientific, called Literary and Scientific after 1836.—(Oct. 10) Joint Board accepted act of incorporation, and resolved, "that none but male white persons shall be admitted as students of this institution".—(Oct. 11) The establishment of a medical department proposed and referred to the Prudential committee. Thomas Chapman, of Camden, N. J., transferred 2,000 volumes, chiefly theological, to the University on very favorable terms, and was appointed agent to solicit donations of books.—(Nov. 23) Prudential committee: authorized Pres. Fisk to have partitions constructed across the lower halls of the Dormitory for the purpose of protection against the cold; resolved that the construction of an observatory on the Lyceum building be deferred for the present (see 1836, May 2).—The annual catalogue, 1832-3, says: "parents and guardians are earnestly advised that young men at college have very little need of spending money; and, in general, it would be much the safest for the student, cheapest for the parent or guardian, and altogether best for the University, to commit the funds of the students to the president or one of the professors, who will attend to their wants and discharge their bills, for which a small commission will be charged." (Last clause, concerning commission, dropped in 1858; the remainder in 1873).—(Dec. 19) At end of this fall term, there was a term examination before the faculty.—(Dec. 27) First death in the college community, Prof. John Mott Smith, who was buried in the old burying ground of Middletown; body afterwards removed to the college cemetery.—(1833, Jan. 10) Prudential committee: Joseph Barratt, M.D., of Middletown, to be asked to remove his minerals from the Laboratory or set a price on them. (See 1837, Jan. 25.)—(Jan. 23) Pres. Fisk authorized by the Prudential committee to procure plates for diplomas.—(March 6) Prudential committee voted that if students wished to board in commons, any of the several dwelling houses belonging to the University should be altered for that purpose.—(March 18) Same committee: the Aldermen and Common Council to be petitioned to change the name of either High or Parsonage (now College) Street to University Street (see 1857, Sept. 27); a committee to petition the General Assembly at next session for moneys claimed by the state from the general government.—(April 11) An agent appointed by the Prudential committee to bid not over $2,000 on the old commons building. A committee also appointed to fit up the building, if purchased, for the student's Boarding association.—(April 13) The Boarding Hall bought at auction; this was called College Hall.—(April 16) Philo took steps toward occupying a room in College Hall for a debating room.—(July 3) Arrangements made for recasting the University bell.—(July 10) The Adelphian society became the Peithologian.—(Aug. 27) Joint Board: a medical department again proposed (see 1832, Oct. 11), and also one of law (see 1841, Aug. 4); a seal, having in the center a likeness of the head of John Wesley, and on the margin, "Universitas Wesleiana, A. D. 1831", was presented by Pres. Fisk, and accepted as the seal of the University; one examination (annual) only to be held, at the end of the collegiate year, and candidates for degrees to be examined in the whole collegiate course; "resolved that the necessary arrangements for connecting mechanical and agricultural labor with the course of instruction be made, each student to labor at least two hours every day, the system to be introduced at once so that parents may have assurance that the physical as well as the intellectual and moral education will be attended to". (See 1836, Aug. 24; end.)

1833-34.

(Aug. 28) First Commencement, the first day of the fall term and the fourth Wednesday of August. It became customary after this, and the plan was probably first adopted at this time, to form a procession on the campus and then proceed, the sheriff of the county and generally a band of music leading the way, to the Methodist Episcopal Church. The exercises, which were "honorably spoken of by the public", consisted of a Latin salutatory, eulogy, philosophical oration, Greek oration, English oration, and a valedictory; six undergraduates also spoke, and the "professor-elect, Daniel D. Whedon," delivered an inaugural address. Until 1843, Commencement pieces were assigned by the faculty without distinction as to scholarship, and consisted of a valedictory, salutatory, philosophical, and generally a classical oration, dissertation and eulogy; sometimes a poem, Greek or German oration, once a dialogue, etc. The programme was in English. The cap and gown has been worn by the president from the first. After these exercises, a dinner—the first commencement dinner—was given at College Hall. The custom of the president's reception in the evening was in practice from the first.—This year consisted of three terms, with winter and spring vacations of two weeks each, and a summer vacation of six weeks.—Chapel orations first mentioned in the catalogue of this term. "The first section (Senior class, after 1836) will deliver original essays before the faculty and students."—Two resident graduates. There was also one in 1834-5, there were two in 1835-6, and two in 1842-3.—Board in the Boarding association "much less" than $1.50 per week.—(Oct. 8) Peitho library founded; Philo also took measures on the same evening to secure a book-case and a mineral case.—The Tub Philosophers, a secret, four years' society, was founded about this time; broke up about 1845.—(Nov. 29) The compromise of the town of Middletown as to its grant of $10,000, giving instead the interest in its quarry for forty years or until the sum of $10,000 should be reached, accepted by the Prudential committee.—(1834, Feb. 4) Editors of The Philorhetorian Magazine elected. Three hundred copies of the prospectus had been ordered printed, and great exertions were afterwards made to secure subscriptions.—(April 1) The University commons began; price of board, $1.25 per week.—(April 16) The publication of The Magazine postponed indefinitely.—(April) First Junior exhibition. The parts were generally about the same as those of Commencement, with the exception of the valedictory, a Latin oration in the place of the salutatory, and the addition of Spanish and French orations, original dramatic sketches, etc.; the latter were a part of the programme for the last time in 1858.—(April 22) A superintendent had been engaged for the mechanical department.—(Aug. 26) Pres. Fisk was appointed by the Joint Board as agent to visit Europe for the purpose of procuring additions to the apparatus, library, and cabinets; $7,000 appropriated for this purpose by the trustees.

(Aug. 27) Commencement; fall term began.—Office of librarian established.—(Oct. 22) The Missionary lyceum founded, "a society having for its principal object the benefit of the missionary cause."—(Nov. 24) First Senior exhibition; end of fall term. These exhibitions generally consisted of nearly the same parts as Commencement exercises; also of a dissertation, a colloquy or dramatic sketch with two or more actors, sometimes a German or French piece, once a poem, etc.—(April 30) First minutes of a faculty meeting recorded.—(June 30) Prudential committee: the present laboratory in the basement of the Lyceum to be fitted for a chapel; the present chapel, the upper story of the Lyceum, to be fitted for the library and cabinets; the brick building to be fitted up for a laboratory (but it was not done at once); the Dormitory to be divided into three sections by two suitable partitions.—(Aug. 25) Trustee meeting: President Fisk requested to observe during his tour in Europe, and perfect some plan for beautifying the campus; the vote of 1832, Oct. 10, refusing admission to men of color, rescinded; the usual plan of salaries substituted for the former plan of contingent salaries.—First public addresses delivered before Philo and Peitho, a custom afterwards observed annually.

About this time the "Governor's chair" of Connecticut, made of carved oak, brought from England in 1629, and used in the inauguration of the younger Winthrop, came into the possession of the college; this was used as the president's chair in Peitho hall; is now deposited in Olin Library.—(Sept. 3) Pres. Fisk left Middletown for Europe, sailing from New York for Liverpool; was eighteen days making the trip. Prof. A. W. Smith, acting president.—(Sept. 21) First address before the Missionary lyceum. The annual sermon was usually delivered on Sunday evening of Commencement week.—(1836, Jan. 29) Prudential committee: plans adopted and estimate ordered for a new college building, some part of which should be used for a chapel and to be situated in range with the Lyceum as far south of it as the Dormitory is north. The erection of the new building made to depend on securing a loan of $10,000 by mortgage from the School Commissioners of Connecticut. The building was never constructed, although it appears in a number of old prints.—(April 12) The brick building to be repaired for a laboratory; this was done soon afterward.—(April 18) The Cuvierian or Natural History society formed; composed of Juniors and Seniors; meetings monthly. The society died later than 1841, when it had fifty members, and before 1860.—(May 2) The bill for the telescope and freight, 6,000 + 960 francs, receipted in Paris by M. Lerebours, maker. This was a refractor of six inches aperture, and was used at first on a movable stand; equatorial mounting made in 1854 or 1855.—Collection of 100 Vesuvius minerals sent by Pres. Fisk.—(Aug. 22) The faculty resolved that, in view of the present state of the public mind on the subject of honorary degrees, they had no candidate for any degree to present to the Joint Board, and suggested the propriety of abstaining for one or more years from conferring any such degree, especially doctorates.—(Aug. 23) First meeting of the Alumni association.—During this year the philosophical and astronomical apparatus was enlarged by the addition of nearly 100 instruments, procured mostly in London and Paris, at an expense of about $4,000. Besides the telescope already mentioned, the following were described in the annual catalogue: “a splendid plate Electrical Machine, with two plates of thirty-six inches in diameter, a magnificent Altitude and Azimuth Instrument, so constructed as to be used also for meridian transits, an Astronomical clock, and various others of the latest construction and of the first quality. The entire apparatus is believed to be as complete and useful for the purposes of instruction as any in the country.” “To the College Library, there has been an accession . . . . of more than one thousand volumes of the first scientific and classical works, selected in Europe by the president with great care.”

1836-37.

In addition to the usual exercises by the graduating class at Commencement, August 24, two “masters’ orations,” for the degree of A.M., were delivered. Master’s orations formed a part of the programme as late as 1853.—Students arranged for the first time in classes instead of sections, but the clause “without any reference to their standing in other departments” was retained in the catalogue till 1843.—Preaching service by the College pastor to be held in the chapel every Sunday, 10 A. M., all students required to be present unless excused upon written request from parents or guardians; regular attendance in the afternoon to be at such church as each one should choose.—A few students enabled to meet a part of their college expenses by laboring in the mechanic’s shop, which had now been fitted up.—(Sept. 1) In a circular prepared for use among the members and friends of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the northern and eastern Conferences, the buildings are said to consist of “a College Edifice, Lyceum (in which are a temporary chapel, library, and recitation rooms), Boarding Hall, Laboratory, and Carpenter’s Shop.”—(Oct.) First triennial published in the annual catalogue, giving a list of the first four classes.—(Nov. 23) Pres. Fisk reached New York on his return from Europe, and reached Middletown on the 29th just in time to preside at the Senior exhibition.—(1837, Jan. 25) Prudential committee voted to pay Dr. Barratt for his cabinet of minerals (about 1,000 specimens) which had been kept in the college cabinet, $436.—(March 17) Between this date and the end of the year a turning lathe with chisels, etc., was purchased for the mechanic’s shop.—(April 12) The Prudential committee decided to confer with the Senior class concerning a cemetery on the grounds of the University. The spot chosen was the knoll west of the college buildings.—(Aug. 22) Joint Board: the erection of a new college building for the accommodation of students considered an indispensable necessity, and the trustees asked to proceed in the work as soon as $10,000 could be raised or secured. (See 1839, fall.)—During this year, additional apparatus amounting in value to about $2,000 arrived from Europe; also, 750 English plants in 5 folio vols. and 500 fossils, with a collection of minerals from Cornwall mines and Giant’s Causeway. “Russell’s magnificent orrery, a new and unrivaled instrument and the only one of the kind in the world,” of American make, was purchased during this year; not mentioned in catalogue after 1868; taken to pieces and removed to carpenter’s shop, 1876.

1837-38.

By vote of the Joint Board August 23, there were to be hereafter two terms in the collegiate year, with a winter vacation of eight weeks and a summer vacation of four weeks.—A volunteer class of students having the ministry in view, called the “Wesley Institute”, was formed.—The Mystical Seven, a secret, literary, four years’ society, formed about this time.—(Fall) Between this time and 1838, June 28, alcoves and shelves were built on the south side of the library (upper story of the Lyceum) for the cabinet of minerals.—The Phi Nu Theta or Eclectic society, a secret, literary, four years’, unchaptered society, founded.—First and only catalogue of the library printed.—(Nov.) The house used by the president until 1904, though not entirely finished till 1838, Jan., was occupied about the last of this month; cost of erection nearly $7,000; frontage of lot, 120 feet. During this winter an instrumental band was formed.—(July 4) Faculty and students united by invitation in the procession of the citizens, in celebrating the day.—(July 31) Trustees voted that, in the erection of new college buildings, the public building, containing the chapel and recitation rooms, should be placed directly south of the Lyceum, and that if the building for student's rooms be erected first, sufficient space should be left for a chapel south of the Lyceum.

1838-39.

Natural History added to the course of study.—(Aug. 27) Prudential committee: a resolution offered to change Commencement from the beginning to the end of the collegiate year, but laid on the table.—The Chique Chauque (later chaque) eating club formed; known at first as the North club; after 1862, this became the eating club of the Psi Upsilon society.—(1839, Feb. 20) Prudential committee: a bill for setting a stone for the transit instrument ordered paid. An octagonal observatory was built about this time; this was a small wooden structure, nine feet in diameter, painted white.—(Feb. 21) Faculty voted that no recitations be held after the one before breakfast on the morrow, on account of its being the anniversary of Washington's birthday; this is the first reference of the kind in the faculty records.—(Feb. 23) Friday. Pres. Fisk died at his residence; funeral on the 26th; the remains were interred in the college cemetery; exercises of the University suspended till the 27th.—Prof. A. W. Smith appointed acting president.—(June 4) Faculty: first mention found of contest between the Junior and Sophomore classes in elocution; four of each class to declaim before the examining committee at the end of the term; first and second best in each class to be decided upon.—(June 18) Great interest in temperance work: the faculty "advise and exhort" the students to join the College Temperance association.—(July 16) The mechanic's shop to be put under charge of the steward. This was about the end of the manual labor system.—(Aug. 6) Rev. Stephen Olin, D.D., elected president; Dr. Olin at this time was in Europe in poor health. A monument to be erected by the alumni and students to the memory of Dr. Fisk.

1839-40.

Hebrew introduced; taught at an extra charge.—The catalogues at this time and until 1845, at least, were published by the students; the number to be printed and other matters were decided upon at college meetings, and the surplus from the sales was appropriated, along with the revenue of a small tax, for the support of the Reading room.—The second triennial published in the annual catalogue, being a list of all degrees conferred up to this time.—(Oct. 25) Celebration of the centenary of Wesleyan Methodism.—During this fall, the new Boarding Hall (later Observatory Hall, now torn down), was erected; 100 x 40, three stories, brick, dining room in middle of second floor; rooms on third floor used for the societies' libraries; there was a wooden staircase on the outside of the building; entire cost, about $8,000. Soon afterward a barn was built, and the well was dug and stoned.—(1840, March 11) The Kappa Delta Phi society organized; name changed in 1841 to Kappa Sigma Theta; in 1843 it became a chapter of Psi Upsilon.—(April 8) Prudential committee: voted that the steward (Horace Bartlett, 1838-44) be permitted "to occupy his leisure hours in experiments in making telescopes, with a view of ultimately furnishing a large one for the University."—(June 24) A college periodical, The Classic, was established at a college meeting.—(July 1) The first number of The Classic or College Monthly published. This was edited by a committee of the students; in 1841-2, Prof. Wm. M. Willett was chosen editor-in-chief.—(Aug. 4) The Joint Board voted that the Fisk professorship, recently founded by the Centenary Fund of the New York Conference, should be applied to any department until the conference should specify to which one they wished it assigned.

1840-41.

The graduating class voted at Commencement (August 5) to hold a re-union at the end of three years, apparently not the usual custom. Dinner held in the new Boarding Hall.—Department of mathematics divided into (1) mathematics and civil engineering, and (2) natural philosophy and astronomy; department of normal instruction added. Physiology added to the course of study.—Board at the commons, without tea, coffee or animal food, $1.25; otherwise, $1.50.—(Nov. 24) Steps taken for the regular increase and improvement of the college library by appropriating the library fees, and soon after this an apportionment of this sum was made among the different departments.—Late in the Fall, Pres. Olin returned from Europe, but his feeble health did not permit him to assume the duties of the presidency, or even to visit Middletown.—(1841, Jan. 6) The legacy of Dr. Fisk's library, chiefly classics, to the college library was formally accepted with an appropriate vote of thanks by the Prudential committee.—(Jan. 20) Pres. Olin resigned; Rev. Nathan Bangs, D.D., elected president.—(March) The subject of electives discussed by the faculty; this discussion was continued for over a year, but no electives were introduced.—(April 1) Suggestion made in The Classic that the "naked, uninteresting lawn" be improved by planting trees and shrubs, cultivating the grass, introducing walks, fountains, statuary, etc.—(April 20) The faculty voted "that the students be excused from recitations tomorrow (as they have been to-day) or the next fair day to finish planting trees on the campus." This became a custom, and the day was known as "tree day". The privilege came to belong to the Sophomores only.

1841-42.

Departments of ecclesiastical history, of biblical literature, and of law added. Lectures given in eleven branches. (Same in 1842-3)—Two law students.—Extra rooms had been fitted up in College Hall for the students; seventeen students in eleven rooms.—(Dec. 1) Instruction was begun in the normal department. The male department of the city High School was used as a practice school.—(March 29) The faculty voted that hereafter at exhibitions and commencements no unusual costume or theatrical equipment should be admitted upon the stage.—(May 18) The Physiological society formed.—(July 30) The sheriff of the county being unable to be present as marshal on Commencement day, the faculty made provision for the exigency by special invitation. This grew to be the rule rather than the exception.—(Aug. 2) Joint Board: Pres. Banks resigned; Rev. Stephen Olin, D. D., re-elected; the Fisk professorship fund to be completed by subscriptions.

1842-43.

Not more than twenty of the thirty seven members of the class allowed to speak at Commencement (August 3), and each limited to eight minutes; "one session only."—The terms hereafter to be three in number with vacations as follows: winter 8 weeks, spring 2, and summer 4.—Modern languages dropped as a department and taught at an extra charge.—(Sept. 1) Last number of The Classic published.—(Dec. 7) Last Senior exhibition; a petition to the faculty to omit this one on account of the smallness of the class and large expense was made, but not granted; but it was recommended that no band of music be engaged, and it was voted that after the present term the supper be prohibited.—(1843, Aug. 2) First Commencement at end of the year; also the first one where parts were assigned according to rank in general scholarship; the "honors" were a valedictory, salutatory, philosophical, metaphysical, ancient classical, and modern classical oration, and occasionally portraiture of character. The remaining parts were called orations, or from 1859, first-class orations and orations. But occasionally there were special parts, such as a poem, Greek oration, ethical oration, etc.

Departments of ecclesiastical history, biblical literature, and Hebrew dropped; the latter taught, but at extra charge. Natural philosophy and astronomy combined with the mathematical department. Lectures on botany introduced; kept up three years.—About this time the Social Union, a secret, literary society, was formed.—(Nov. 20) The Kappa Sigma Theta became the Xi chapter of the Psi Upsilon society, a secret, literary, four years' society.—(1844, May 1) First Junior exhibition where parts were assigned by rank in scholarship.

1844-45.

Department of normal instruction dropped. Modern languages also dropped, but restored in 1848.—The Chi Psi society, Alpha chapter, a secret, literary, four years' society, founded.—(1845, Feb. 27) First mention in faculty records of the observance of the day of prayer ("concert of prayer") for colleges.—(July 4) Celebration of the day by an oration and by reading of the Declaration of Independence.—(July 7) The Phi Beta Kappa society, Gamma chapter of Connecticut, founded.—(Aug. 5) Examinations hereafter to be held at end of each term.

1845-46.

The Tub Philosophers, who had changed before this into the Thenicans or Thencannies, broke up about this time.—(Nov. 11) Written examinations introduced; faculty voted "that any of the officers who may deem it expedient and feasible be permitted to make use of written examinations in their classes."—(1846, March 3) Morning prayers changed from 6 o'clock to 7.45, but the bell was rung at 6. At this time any Senior who failed to be prepared at the proper time for his chapel performance was not permitted to attend any of his recitations.—(June 1) President Olin sailed for England to attend the Evangelical Alliance and for the benefit of his health; Prof. A. W. Smith acting president.—(July 4) All college exercises, excepting prayers, omitted; a dinner was given in "Steward Hubbard's Hall," at which a toastmaster presided, the Declaration was read, the "Glee Club" sang, etc.—Mathematics first buried this year. This was not done for several years afterward; the process changed to burning.—(Aug. 5) Commencement programme first in Latin.—With the close of this collegiate year the commons ended. (See 1834, April 1.)

1846-47.

Law was not taught this year, but the department was nominally kept up in the catalogue till 1852.—(Nov. 2) President Olin arrived in New York after a thirty-six days voyage, bringing among other gifts books to the library from Rev. Jabez Burns, D.D.—(1847, Aug. 4) Commencement dinner given in the rooms in the Boarding Hall where the commons had been held.

1847-48.

Course of study for the first time arranged in the catalogue by years instead of under departments. Calendar also first published.—Income of the library fund, about $250, was apportioned, one-half for general literature, and one-half for mathematics, moral science, natural science, and languages.—(1848, July) Missionary Hall in Boarding Hall (two rooms in Observatory Hall) dedicated for the use of the Missionary lyceum as a society room and depository for specimens from heathen lands.—(July 24) Between 1847, Aug., and this date, the College Hall (old Boarding Hall) was sold for $500 under condition that the materials be removed from the grounds; the bricks were used in building four houses on William Street.—(Aug. 1) The professorship which had been endowed by the New York Conference and called the Hedding professorship, was acknowledged by the Joint Board and applied to the department of moral science and belles-lettres; afterwards to mental philosophy and political economy; then to history and political economy; now to history.

1848-49.

Lectures given to Juniors in Greek literature (dropped in 1850), and in Roman literature (dropped in 1853). Lectures to Sophomores in Greek and Roman literature. Modern languages again introduced, but at an extra charge until 1850, when they became a part of the course of study. First elective (Hebrew) mentioned in the course of study.—(1849, June) At this time it was customary to excuse the Juniors after morning recitations on some day in June or July to clear up the college cemetery, the day being known as "cemetery day." This custom prevailed certainly as late as 1854 and 1855.—(July 4) First Senior examination commenced four weeks before Commencement; followed by the first Senior vacation.—Twenty-eight speakers at Commencement (August 1), a morning and an afternoon session. There were two sessions also in 1851 and 1852. According to the printed programmes these three were the only years in which two sessions were held.

1849-50.

Additional electives allowed in this and the succeeding years, but for important changes and additions, see 1869 and 1873.—Degree of D.D. conferred on an alumnus for the first time at Commencement, it being conferred on two, Nos. 28 and 33.

1850-51.

(Aug. 16, 1851) President Olin died.

1851-52.

(Oct. 16) Rev. John McClintock, D.D., elected president; name was printed in the catalogue, but he declined the position.—The fifth triennial published with the annual catalogue, giving for the first time lists of trustees and faculty, and a statistical table of eleven lines.—(1852, Aug. 3) Prof. A. W. Smith elected president.

1852-53.

During this year and the next, Rev. Laban Clark, D.D., delivered his lectures on theology at 9 A. M., Sundays; attendance voluntary.—(1853, April 22) The Sophomores were granted leave after the morning recitation "to go and procure trees for the college grounds."—Commencement dinner at McDonough Hall for the first time. Efforts to raise an endowment fund of $100,000, called the Centum Millia fund, were begun about this time.

1853-54.

Lectures in metaphysics introduced.—The Fisk professorship applied to the department of natural science (now to mathematics).—The Libanians, a secret society, so secret that its existence was not known for some time, was organized about this time.—(Aug. 1) An agent appointed by the Joint Board for raising funds for the proposed endowment.

1854-55.

Boarding Hall first used in part as a dormitory; three rooms only being used this year and next, but the number was increased in 1857 to twelve, and in 1861 to eighteen.—(1855, May 4) The State of Connecticut paid the first installment of its grant of $10,000 to the endowment fund; other installment paid 1856, May 15. Hon. Benjamin Douglas and Prof. H. B. Lane were influential in securing this grant.—(May 30) Daniel Drew contributed to the endowment fund, $5,000.—(June 20) Isaac Rich contributed to the endowment fund, $20,000.

1855-56.

The Monday morning recitations adapted for Sunday study were dropped, excepting with the Seniors, who had Paley's Evidences this year and Hopkin's afterwards.—The Chronometer eating club formed; this became the eating club of the Alpha Delta Phi society about 1865.—(1856, spring) The Alpha Delta Phi, Middletown chapter, a secret, literary, four years' society, was formed about this time; composed of members taken from the Betreans and Libanians, which then disbanded.—(Aug.) About this time the whole of the $100,000 endowment had been secured; $80,000 was invested as endowment for professorships.—Celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary by an alumni dinner at McDonough Hall, with speeches, etc.—(Aug. 7) The degree of I.L.D. conferred on an alumnus (No. 1) for the first time.

(Fall) The experiment of seating the students in chapel alphabetically instead of by classes was found unsuccessful.—An attempt to revive The Classic made.—(1857, Aug. 5) Pres. Smith resigned; Rev. Joseph Cummings, D.D., '40, elected president. By vote of the Joint Board, the department of geology to receive for purchases, etc., $200 annually.

1857-58.

Prof. John Johnston, LL.D., acting president till spring term.—The Theta Delta Chi, Omicron chapter, a secret, literary, four years' society, established about this time; dissolved in 1860.—The name of Parsonage Street changed to College Street.—(1858, spring) A flag-pole, one hundred and twenty feet high, was erected by the Sophomore class on the spot now occupied by the southwest door-step of Memorial Chapel; taken down in 1868, when the chapel was built.—(July 4) Celebration according to the custom usual at this time; ringing of college bell and firing of the cannon at sunrise; speeches made by some of the faculty and students around the cannon at the flag-pole; exercises in college chapel at 9 A. M.—(July 30) At the usual contest in declamation between the Junior and Sophomore classes an offer of a prize was made; this was about the first prize given at Wesleyan and was called, from its donor, the President's prize. (Given last in 1866).—(Aug. 4) Scholarships at $100 and $50 authorized by the Joint Board to be sold by an agent.

(Sept. 2) Length of vacations to be thus: winter 3 weeks, spring 2, and summer 8. Modern languages in regular course of study again. Separate announcement of the scientific course of three years made in the catalogue.—Prayers on Saturday evening and on Sunday morning and evening discontinued.—(Fall) The Alpha eating club, formed probably before this, was composed at this time chiefly of Eclectics and Mystics. After 1865, this became the club of the Phi Nu Theta or Eclectic society.—There were two boat clubs, having 17 and 9 members; a boat, "the first boat of the navy," was bought about this time; in 1861, there were 7 boats and 7 clubs. Between 1865 and 1871, no mention of boat clubs appears in The Olla Podrida.—The Frankfort collection of 2,000 minerals, many very choice and mostly from European localities, was purchased about this time for $1,400.—(Nov. 8) The first Olla Podrida issued; folio 12 x 17 inches, price four cents. (No. 3, folio, 13 x 19, was published by the Sophomore class in April, 1861; No. 4, the first in pamphlet form, was published by the Freshman class in July, 1862; from 1864 to 1873, published by the secret societies; 1873-6, by the Argus association; 1877, by the Olla Podrida committee; 1878 to 1918, by the Junior class; since then by the College Body.—(Nov. 17) First Sophomore exhibition. The names of the parts were the same in general as those of the Junior exhibition and Commencement.—(1859, Feb. 22) Celebration of the day by the Sophomores with a programme carried out in the college chapel. (In 1862, at the invitation of the citizens, the exercises were held in McDonough Hall.)—(June 21) Measures taken by the Joint Board for erecting the necessary college buildings; a committee appointed to arrange for raising $50,000.—(June 22) First Commencement held in June.

1859-60.

Important general improvements were made in the appearance of the grounds and buildings during this year.—(1860, June 19) The Adams prize, Sophomore mathematics, first awarded. (Given last in 1863).—(June 20) The committee of the Joint Board on buildings recommended the erection of three buildings: one containing a chapel, lecture hall, and recitation rooms; one for natural science; and one for an observatory. At the alumni meeting it was voted to edit an Alumni Record, Orange Judd, Editor.

1860-61.

Special instruction in elocution introduced.—During this year, gas was put into the halls and recitation rooms of the college buildings.—(1861, April) First mention found of base-ball clubs; two in existence. (See 1864, fall).—(June 17) First award of the Parker prize, Senior rhetorical until 1867, but since then, Junior and Sophomore declamation; also first award of the Walsh prize, Sophomore Greek and Latin. (Given for Greek only, after 1863; given last, 1874).

1861-62.

Vacations to be as follows: winter 3 weeks, spring 4, and summer 6.—A preparatory school, called "The Middletown Academy," was held this year in the college buildings.—(1862, spring) Tree-day celebrated for the last time.—The college cabinet was removed from the Lyceum, fourth floor (see 1837, fall), to the Missionary lyceum room, Boarding Hall. This was kept separate from the collection of the Missionary lyceum till 1871, fall.—The libraries of Philo and Peitho were annexed about this time to the college library.—(July) "The Roll of Honor," a list of all those students and alumni who had entered the Union forces during the civil war up to this time, published in The Olla Podrida. "The Wesleyan University Guards," Co. G, 4th (afterwards 1st) Connecticut Artillery, was composed of students, and drilled on the college campus.—First award of the Calef prize, Junior and Sophomore declamation. (Given last in 1879.)

1862-63.

The Lyceum called Chapel Building, later (1871) South College.—(Sept. 29) End of the students' Reading Room association; faculty resolved to assume charge. (See 1831, Nov.)—The eighth triennial, the first in Latin and separate from the annual catalogue, published.—First award of the Ayres prize, Freshman preparatory.—(1863, June) Class-day instituted; the exercises which were semi-private were held on the campus in the early evening; a supper, later.—(July) The library fund was increased to about $6,000 through subscriptions of the alumni.—The card catalogue of the library was commenced during this year.—(July 15) The Olin professorship ($25,000) of rhetoric and English literature founded by Isaac Rich, Esq. The Robert Rich professorship of Latin founded. First Commencement concert.

1863-64.

Saturday morning recitations introduced about this time.—(Fall) The Chi Psi society surrendered its charter about this time. (See 1876, May 23).—(Nov. 13) Hon. Lee Claflin contributed to the endowment fund, $10,000.—During fall and winter, the gymnasium was built, being first used in the spring of 1864.—(1864, Feb. 22) The public exercises on Washington's birthday consisted for the first time of an oration by a Senior and reading of the Declaration by a Junior. About 1873, a declamation was substituted for the reading.—(June) Class-day exercises on the campus, and an oration, history, poem, prophecy, etc., in McDonough Hall. The campus exercises were held around the flag-pole till 1868, in which year they were held under a mulberry tree, north of Rich Hall.—(July) First Obituary Record of the alumni published, including the names of those who had died since July, 1862. This has since been published annually, of late years in The Bulletin.—First award of the following prizes: North, Sophomore mathematics (last given, in 1875); Phi Beta Kappa, Sophomore Latin; Hibbard, Freshman declamation. There was also a prize contest this year between Philo and Peitho with three prizes: Senior oration, Junior debate, and Sophomore debate.—The custom of class re-unions at intervals of 3, 7, 10, 15, and 25 years commenced this year.—(July 19) The thanks of the Joint Board returned to the class of '64 for their gift to the University of the portrait of Rev. Laban Clark, D.D., "entitled to be called the Father of the University."—(July 20) Isaac Rich proposed on certain conditions to donate funds for the erection of a library building. (See 1867, July 16; 1868, July 15.)

1864-65.

Formal instruction in the gymnasium with required attendance was given this year; also in 1869-70.—(Fall) Agallian Base Ball club organized; score book purchased; grounds on Washington Green; club was in existence until at least 1869, fall.—(1865, July) The Library fund was increased to $27,600 by the alumni.—First award of these prizes: Rich, for Senior oration; Cutts, mental philosophy (given last, 1878); Miller, Junior debate; Dean, Sophomore debate (given last, 1867).—(July 18) The thanks of the Joint Board returned to the class of 1865 for their gift of the portrait of Isaac Rich.—The establishment of a school of science proposed before the Joint Board; the project was not carried out.

1865-66.

Drew professorship of Greek founded. (Ended, 1876).—The Skull and Serpent society, a secret, Senior society, established. The Sigma Phi Sigma society formed. (Appeared last in Olla Podrida, 1872, Feb.)—(Nov.) The Army and Navy Union formed. The total number on its roll in 1883 was 279, embracing eleven per cent. of all the graduates living at the beginning of the war, and "over thirty per cent. of all who were connected with the institution during the war." For list, in part, see The Olla Podrida, 1866, pp. 44-50. This organization aided in the erection of the Memorial Chapel.—(1866, July) First award of the Olin prize, Senior English oration; also of the societies' prize, Freshman declamation (given again in 1867). In a gymnastic contest between the Junior and Sophomore classes the prize, which was a United States flag, of silk, valued at $70, was won by the class of '67.—(July 18) The proposition was made before the Joint Board to raise a Centenary fund of $250,000, and a committee appointed to secure contributions; also to erect a memorial chapel, in memory of the alumni and students who had fallen in the late war. (See 1871, July 18.)—About this time the regular meetings of Philo and Peitho were discontinued. The societies began to decline before this; they died out almost entirely after 1868, spring.

Vacations changed to two or three weeks in winter, three in spring and eight in summer.—(Sept. 11) The nine-foot octagonal observatory removed. Ground broken soon after this for Rich Hall.—The ninth triennial, the second and last in Latin and separate from the annual catalogue, published.—(Nov. 27) Usual plan of appointments for Sophomore exhibition dropped; three grades announced on back of programme.—(1867, Feb. 22) Last salute fired around the flag-pole.—(May) "The Boston and the New York alumni clubs have been formed." (Olla Podrida, 1867, May.) The first annual re-union of the former was held during the winter of 1867-8; that of the latter seems to have been held 1868-9.—The Delta Kappa Epsilon, Gamma Phi chapter, a secret, literary, four years' society, organized.—

The Mystical Seven changed from a four years' society to a Senior society, and called Owl and Wand.—The Wyvern eating club of the Delta Kappa Epsilon society founded.—(July) First public exercises of the burning of mathematics.—(July 16) The Taylor prize for the best English poem from any student founded; a committee appointed to present to the alumni the subject of procuring a portrait of ex-Pres. Smith (a portrait now hangs in the president's office); a paper proposing the admission of women to the University referred for report at the next annual meeting (see 1871, July 19); the new library building to be called Rich Hall; an observatory to be built as a tower to the Boarding Hall.

1867-68.

Custom adopted of commencing the term on the second Thursday of September.—(1868, spring) The observatory on Boarding Hall begun; the outside stairway removed.—The library was removed from the fourth story of the Chapel Building to Rich Hall. A sum amounting to $5,000, to be expended for books on American history, was raised by the friends of the late Moses F. Odell of Brooklyn; the library alcove containing the books to be called the "Odell Alcove." This money was gradually expended during the three following years.—(May) The Shurtleff cabinet of Simeon Shurtleff, M.D., of Simsbury, Conn., consisting of 8,000 species and 80,000 specimens of shells, 650 birds, 1,000 coins, etc., which had been purchased shortly before this (so voted by faculty, 1867, Aug. 17) for $10,000, was placed in Rich Hall on the third floor. Ground broken for Memorial Chapel. The flag-pole was taken down soon after this.—(June 11) The College Argus, No. 1, Vol. 1, published; edited by Seniors.—(July) Preliminary edition of THE ALUMNI RECORD issued.—First award of the Taylor prize.—(July 15) Rich Hall, the library building, dedicated; 90 x 55; of Portland brown stone, 212 feet south of the Chapel Building; shelf room for 80,000 volumes; cost, $40,000. Corner-stone of Memorial Chapel laid.—(July 16) Entrance examination papers printed.—(Aug. 4) Isaac Rich and Daniel Drew gave each a note for $100,000. As some former bonds and notes were canceled at this time, the advance contribution of each respectively was $55,000 and $70,000.

1868-69.

Distinctions as to departments no longer made in the catalogue.—The library in Rich Hall opened for use.—The tower and dome on the Boarding Hall completed; height sixty-five feet; outside of the building, heretofore whitewashed, first painted. From this time the building was called Observatory Hall.—(1869, Jan.) The new telescope mounted; made by Alvan Clark & Sons of Cambridge, Mass., 12-inch aperture, equatorially mounted with clock-work, and at the time second best in this country. The old telescope was stored away in the observatory.—The Cinean society, an open, literary society, intended to supply the place of Philo and Peitho, organized.—(March) The endowment fund was estimated at this time to be $320,000; the total amount of gifts, including buildings and apparatus, as well as contributions to the endowment, since 1863, was $375,000.—The University Base Ball club was organized about this time.—(June 24) Class-day exercises first held under the maple in front of the Dormitory; this "class maple" was used till class-day of '81, when, on June 27, an oration and music in the North Congregational church was substituted for the afternoon campus exercises; the class maple was cut down, Dec. 29, 1881.—(July) The Wise prize, Senior moral philosophy, first awarded; also the Peirce prize, natural science.—THE ALUMNI RECORD first published by Orange Judd, A.M., editor, at a private expense of about $4,000.—(Summer vacation) First concrete walk laid across the campus. New walks were also laid out.

1869-70.

Latin, Greek, and mathematics of Junior year changed to elective; other electives, zoology, physical geography, and botany, added.—The Cinean society died.—(Sept.

25) Boat race in ordinary row-boats on the Connecticut river.—(Nov. 4) Ground broken for Orange Judd Hall.—(1870, May) Several plaster casts donated; busts of Homer and Euripides presented by E. B. Nye, M.D.; a statue of Sophocles by the class of '71; these were placed in Rich Hall.—(May 5) Corner-stone of Judd Hall laid.—Campus enlarged by the removal of two dwelling-houses near Cross Street.—(June 2) The charter amended by the General Assembly of Connecticut; a Board of not over 40 trustees to be substituted for the Joint Board of trustees and visitors, which was now composed of 29 trustees and of 30 visitors from 13 patronizing conferences; each of these conferences to elect at least one trustee, the alumni to elect five, and the Joint Board the remainder.—(July 5) Hon. John F. Judd gave to the college $5,000.—(July 19) Last meeting of the Joint Board; the new charter adopted.

1870-71.

Elocution as a study introduced.—(Fall) Peitho revived temporarily and held a few meetings this year.—Theta Nu Epsilon, Alpha chapter, a Sophomore, secret society, organized.—Campus enlarged and graded.—Donation to the library of 493 vols., including many scientific works, by D. D. Chamberlain, M.D.—(Oct 4) Boat club of the class of '73 formed.—(Nov. and Dec.) Ward's casts of over 1,000 fossils, costing $3,600, the gift of Orange Judd, deposited in Judd Hall.—(1871, Jan.) The Middletown Scientific association organized; meetings held monthly, field-days and excursions in spring and fall.—(Feb.) The Chicago Alumni club formed.—(June) Last minutes recorded of a meeting of the Missionary lyceum, but the society, as a literary society, died before this. Occasional public meetings were held, certainly as late as 1864. The students who last signed the constitution for membership belonged to '73. However, the sermon delivered on Sunday evening of Commencement week was called as usual "the annual sermon before the Missionary lyceum" till 1878.—(July 18) Memorial Chapel dedicated; 60 x 101, of Portland brownstone; facing east, in line with and midway between Chapel Building and Rich Hall, 76 feet each way; without spire at this time (see fall); daily chapel room and two recitation rooms on first floor, large audience room on second floor, with a seating capacity of 800. In this "upper chapel" is the memorial window containing the names of eighteen of the students and alumni who fell in the late war.—Orange Judd Hall of Natural Science also dedicated; of same material, 62 x 94; four stories and basement; first floor devoted to chemistry, second floor to natural history and physics, third and fourth floors to the museum; total cost, $100,000.—(July 19) The trustees decided that there was nothing in the charter to prevent ladies from being admitted to the privileges of the University. (See 1872, Sept. 12.)—First annual regatta on the Connecticut river; the boat-house at this time was a temporary structure, 50 x 11, at foot of William Street.—During the summer, the four recitation rooms on first floor in the old Chapel Building were remodeled into two, with a professor's study adjoining each. The coal-sheds and out-houses in the rear of the Dormitory were torn down, and the carpenter's shop moved back of the gymnasium.

From this time the Dormitory was called North College, and the old Chapel Building, South College.—Attendance at only one preaching service on Sunday required, and this in the afternoon at Memorial Chapel.—During this fall, the spire of Memorial Chapel was built through the gift of George I. Seney; height of the vane from the ground, 144 feet. The bell and clock were then put in place, the latter being the gift of Hon. Jacob Sleeper, and the old bell was sold for bell-metal.—Judd Hall chemical laboratory and natural history rooms used, leaving the old brick Laboratory unoccupied. The various cabinets were removed to Judd Hall Museum.—The telescope furnished with a refracting spectroscope having the dispersive power of twelve prisms.—The Arion Glee Club was formed.—Sickness in college; eighteen cases of typhoid fever, two of which were fatal.—(Dec. 20) The
